

Leave satellite radio alone. We pay for a service that is above and beyond anything AM or FM can provide and we do it by choice. To tamper with our ability to chose what we pay to hear is a violation of our personal rights. The fault lies with inept local radio stations not with XM radio. If local stations cannot compete on a fair playing field then its thier fault for not planning ahead. This reminds me of when FM came out and the AM stations were forced to transmit local news and talk radio to survive. To punish the better provider for being "better" is wrong.

Thanks for considering this
